Referring to TO-DAY'S SALE OF THE CELEBRATED

I have received the following communication: Feb. 6, 1922. Communication: Feb. 6, 1922.

Dear Mr. Clarke: Considering the magnitude of my collection of Lowestoft which you are about to disperse today at unrestricted public sale, I should like to acquaint the public with the fact that it has taken me many years of uniting effort to locate these rare and beautiful Eighteenth Century European Chinese porcelains in the families of nobility and in those descendants from the pioneers of the East India Company, seafaring men, missionaries and adventurers, and that I have travelled many miles and gone through considerable hardships to add one fine specimen to the collection, the like of which will never be sold again. I want you to state emphatically that I have examined every piece and guarantee each to be genuine Oriental Lowestoft. I remain.

Very truly yours.
